Dear Jeffrey,

I am not sure which would be the best rou=e to take and I just want to see what is best for you so that I can make my=search more specific.

(Oh before I forget Saries e= George's family have opened a beautiful food store, restaurant, and wellne=center just down the street where I have been staying. I think its him -B=mford)

Back to apartments. I dont know whether to l=ok at long term vs short term. Short term literally add what seems like 40%=on to the price for the exact same apartment you could get long term.

=div>However the difficulty with long term is due to the fact that I do not h=ve work proving that I earn four times the amount of the rent, and no UK be=efactor (the person has to own property in the UK) I would have to pay 6 mo=ths up front. What I would do with long term is only take it with a 6 month=break clause, so that you can leave after 6 months. There is also a deposit=with long term which I think you get back at the end if you haven't caused d=mage.

Then there is also the question of must I look for a space w=ere Karyna could visit because it makes it a slightly different deal. But e=en if its one bedroom, I could give her my bed.

<=iv>And then as always I know this is not your responsibility and you have g=ven me the world already and I would understand if I had to sort it myself f=om a financial stand point.

Love and miss you
